Dear Potential Sponsor,

The McDonald's All American High School Basketball Games (MAAHSBG) showcase the top boys and girls high school basketball players in the nation. The doubleheader is annually played in different host cities, drawing capacity crowds. We are asking for your company's consideration for sponsorship of the 2009 Annual McDonald's All American High School Basketball Games and events taking place here in Miami, Florida the week of March 30th, 2009

For the first time in Florida, the Games will take place on Wednesday, April 1, 2009 at the University of Miami's Bank United Center in Coral Gables. The Games will be nationally televised on ESPN. In addition to the Games, the McDonald's All American's will participate in a separate POWERade JamFest on Monday, March 30, featuring the ESPN nationally televised slam dunk and three-point contests. There will also be a special awards banquet to honor the players and to present them with their All American rings on Tuesday, March 31.

Each year, proceeds from the McDonald's All American Games benefit the local chapter of the Ronald McDonald House Charities. This year, the net proceeds of the event will benefit Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida helping children in Miami Dade, Broward, Monroe and Palm Beach counties.

Millions of dollars have been raised for various children's charities since the games were first played in 1978. Attached you will find additional information about the McDonald's All American High School Basketball Games and events leading up to the game. Also enclosed are the sponsorship opportunities for your consideration. Please contact any of the following individuals if you have questions, would like additional information or would like to confirm sponsorship opportunities:

GENERAL INFORMATION AND TRIVIA

McDONALD'S ALL AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL GAMES

ORIGIN:

In 1977, McDonald's® selected the best high school basketball players in the country and named them to the first McDonald's All American High School Team. The Team competed in the Capital Classic Game (started in 1974) against the best players in the Maryland-D.C.-Virginia area.

Then, in 1978, just one year later, McDonald's launched its own all-star high school game -- the McDonald's All American High School Basketball Game®, featuring an East team and a West team of the best high school boy's players in the country. It was the first national high school basketball all-star game. The Inaugural Game was played in 1978 before a crowd of more than 13,000 at The Spectrum in Philadelphia.

Now, in 2009, McDonald's will host the 32nd annual Boys Game and the eighth annual Girls Game. Both games will take place at the BankUnited Center in Miami, FL on April 1, 2009.

31 BOYS GAMES, 32 BOYS TEAMS:

This year marks the 32nd annual McDonald's All American Boys High School Basketball Game, but the 33rd year in which a Boys Team has been named. The first McDonald's All American Boys Team in 1977 included future NBA greats Magic Johnson, Albert King and Gene Banks.

AN HONOR ROLL OF 743 BOYS

Including 2008, 743 boy players have been selected to the McDonald's All American High School Basketball Team®, coming from 45 states and the District of Columbia.

AN HONOR ROLL OF 168 GIRLS

Including 2008, 168 girls have been selected to the McDonald's All American High School Basketball Team, coming from 35 states and the District of Columbia.

MOST PROLIFIC STATES:

Over the past 32 years, California has produced the highest number of McDonald's All American boys with 78.

California	78	Michigan	35
New York	61	Indiana	34
Illinois	57	Georgia	29
Virginia	53	New Jersey	29
Texas	35	Pennsylvania	24
Maryland	35	Florida	22

Note: California has also taken the lead for the highest number of McDonald's All American girls with 29 players over the past seven years.

NCAA CHAMPIONS:

Looking for a barometer to determine the chances of a college basketball team winning the NCAA Championship? At least one McDonald's All American boy had been part of every title since 1979 until 2002 when the University of Maryland won the title without any former McDonald's All Americans. In 2003, the streak began again with a victory by Syracuse University. In all, 81 alumni have played a role in at least one NCAA title:

The 2009 game marks the 32nd anniversary of the boy's game and the 8th annual girl's game. A selection committee of prominent high school coaches, prep scouts and media from around the country choose the nation's top graduating high school boy and girl basketball players from a pool of approximately 2,500 eligible seniors. Morgan Wootten, the popular high school basketball coach with the most wins of all time, serves as the chairman of the McDonald's All American Selection Committee. The legendary, Coach John Wooden, Former UCLA basketball coach and chairman of the McDonald's All American Game, serves as an advisor to the committee.

Each year, proceeds from the McDonald's All American Games benefit the local chapter of the Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC). This year, the net proceeds of the event benefit the Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida. Millions of dollars have been raised for various children's charities since the games were first played in 1978. The participants of this year's McDonald's All American Games will have the opportunity to visit with patients at the Ronald McDonald House of Miami during game week.

ABOUT THE POWERADE JAMFEST:

The annual POWERade JamFest will be held at the Bank United Center at the University of Miami on Monday, March 30, 2009, from 7:00 – 9:00 p.m. (Times subject to change) The POWERade JamFest will provide an opportunity for the McDonald's All Americans to showcase their abilities in skills competitions. Players will compete in the slam dunk contest and the three-point shoot out. The estimated attendance of this event is over 5,000. The event will be aired live on ESPN.

ABOUT THE McDONALD'S ALL-AMERICAN AWARDS BANQUET:

The McDonald's All-American Awards Banquet will take place on Tuesday, March 31, 2009. Over the past few years, the banquet has featured some well known basketball names such as Bill Walton, John Wooden, Lisa Leslie, Gail Goodrich, Jerry Colangelo & Jay Williams, Julius Irving (Dr. J) as well as entertainer Lauryn Hill. The banquet also includes the special presentation of the All American rings to the players. It is truly a celebration of the game of basketball.

ABOUT RONALD McDONALD HOUSE CHARITIES:

All proceeds from the Games will benefit Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida. Ronald McDonald House Charities was founded in 1984, a decade after Dr. Audrey Evans and Philadelphia Eagles' tight end Fred Hill, whose daughter had leukemia, opened the first Ronald McDonald House in Philadelphia. In memory of McDonald's founder and children's advocate, Ray Kroc, RMHC was established to help seriously ill children and their families and to continue the success of the first Ronald McDonald House.

McDonalds is proud to support Ronald McDonald House Charities through World Children's Day and local fundraising efforts as well as countless volunteer hours. McDonald's and its Owner/Operators are dedicated to Ronald McDonald House Charities and its mission to create, find and support programs that directly improve the health and well being of children through its three core programs that help families in need:

- Ronald McDonald House®
- Ronald McDonald Family Room®
- Ronald McDonald Care Mobile®

The Ronald McDonald House provides a home away from home for families of seriously ill children receiving treatment at nearby hospitals.

The, Ronald McDonald Family Room, extends the comfort of a Ronald McDonald House into the hospital. Often located steps away from pediatric and intensive care units, a Ronald McDonald Family Room provides a place to enjoy a warm meal, talk with other parents and relax.

The Ronald McDonald House Care Mobile Unit is a fleet of state-of-the-art vehicles that deliver cost-effective medical and dental care directly to underserved children in their own neighborhoods. In the U.S. alone, almost 12 million children are uninsured and unable to obtain access to proper health care. Unlike most mobile clinics, the Ronald McDonald Care Mobiles are designed and built specifically as pediatric healthcare units.

ABOUT RONALD McDONALD HOUSE CHARITIES OF SOUTH FLORIDA:

In the early 1980's a small group of dedicated volunteers, including McDonald's Owner Operators, set out to build the first Ronald McDonald House in South Florida, which opened on August 15, 1982 on the grounds of Jackson Memorial Medical Center in Downtown Miami. The 27-bedroom House has provided shelter and solace for more than 21,000 families from around the world. Established in 1988, Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC) of South Florida was created in memory of McDonald's founder Ray A. Kroc, who believed in sharing his good fortune with others.

After 15 years, the opportunity and partnership with the North Broward Hospital District made it possible to open a second House in the market. In May of 2004, the Ronald McDonald House of Fort Lauderdale opened its doors to serve and help children and families in Broward and Palm Beach Counties. With this addition to the market, the help has extended to over 700 families a year. Funding from the House comes from individuals, foundations, corporations, special events and with the help of local McDonald's restaurants through awareness, promotions and canisters.

RMHC of South Florida is committed to education and making it a priority, offering scholarships to local Hispanic and African American students who face limited access to educational and career opportunities. These scholarships provide the young leaders of tomorrow with an opportunity to achieve and accomplish their goals and dreams. RMHC / HACER of South Florida locally awards 10 senior high school students with a $2,000 scholarship. The Future Achievers scholarship selects 11 students with the same award. Since inception the program has contributed almost $500,000 to local South Florida students.

Donations are one of the primary functions of RMHC South Florida. RMHC focuses its grant donations to non-profit organizations whose work directly impacts a wide number of South Florida children 18 years and under. These grants are awarded to benefit children and families in the following important areas: Health Care and Medical Research; Educational and Social responsibility, including Ronald McDonald Houses. Since its inception, RMHC of South Florida has awarded over $4 million dollars to other local, not-for-profit organizations benefiting children and families.

RMHC is a not-for-profit foundation dedicated to helping local children live happier, healthier and more productive lives by supporting health care and medical research programs, education and the arts, and civic and social programs.

RMHC takes tremendous pride in the high standards and outstanding reputation of the Ronald McDonald Houses, its cornerstone program, which is a "home-away-from home" for families who must travel hundreds, sometimes thousands of miles outside of their own community to seek medical treatment for a child. Families who stay at the House find other families with the same concerns and they also find staff and volunteers who listen and care during these difficult times.

In the early 1980's a small group of dedicated volunteers, including McDonald's Owner Operators, set out to build the first Ronald McDonald House in South Florida, which opened on August 15, 1982 on the grounds of Jackson Memorial Medical Center in Downtown Miami. With this addition to the market, the help has extended to around 700 families a year.

Funding from the House comes from individuals, foundations, corporations, special events and with the help of local McDonald's restaurants through awareness, promotions and canisters.

RMHC of South Florida is committed to education and making it a priority, offering scholarships to local Hispanic and African American students who face limited access to educational and career opportunities. These scholarships provide the young leaders of tomorrow with an opportunity to achieve and accomplish their goals and dreams. RMHC / HACER of South Florida locally awards to 10 senior high-school students with a $2,000 scholarship and Future Achievers selects 11 students with the same award. Since inception the program has contributed almost $500,000 to local South Florida students.

Donations are one of the primary functions of RMHC South Florida. RMHC focuses its grant donations to non-profit organizations whose work directly impacts a wide number of South Florida children 18 years and under. These grants are awarded to benefit children and families in the following important areas: Health Care and Medical Research; Educational and Social responsibility, including Ronald McDonald Houses. Since its inception, RMHC of South Florida has awarded over $4 million dollars to other local, not-for-profit organizations benefiting children and families.

RONALD McDONALD HOUSE® OF MIAMI OFFERS A HOME AWAY FROM HOME FOR MIRACLE BABY

Beatriz Suarez was told her son would never survive. She was just two months pregnant when the doctors delivered the devastating news that her son suffered from urine blockage and would die because his lungs would never develop.

But Suarez refused to accept the diagnosis. She pleaded with physicians to try anything to save her baby. Two surgeries and three procedures later, she gave birth to Anthony Suarez on May 31, 2006 at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami.

Doctors told her he wouldn't live more than 30 minutes. Then they said he wouldn't live through the night. He received his final blessing from a priest. But Anthony and his mother are fighters.

Suarez commuted between Miami and her home in the Florida Keys daily, driving a total of eight hours a day so that she could care for her 5-year-old son Edward, and be there for Anthony. A sense of comfort and support was finally offered to Suarez and her family at the Ronald McDonald House of Miami, which is celebrating its 25th Anniversary this month.

"I was so tired, I was sleeping in my car," said Suarez. "The Ronald McDonald House helped me so much. I was able to move with Edward to Miami so that I could be close to the hospital and take care of both of my children."

Anthony has had four additional surgeries since his birth, and as soon as he reaches 22 pounds he is expected to undergo a kidney transplant with his mother serving as the donor. Every day Anthony grows stronger. At 15 months he is standing, crawling and almost walking. Doctors are amazed at his ability to eat through his mouth.

"They said it is a miracle that he is alive – they have no explanation," said Suarez, holding Anthony with extreme pride. "Doctors failed to ever give me a bit of hope that my child would perhaps survive, but my heart was telling me that my baby was going to be OK. The Ronald McDonald House staff, other families and volunteers have offered so much support and have truly acted like family."

The Ronald McDonald House® of Miami is the cornerstone program of Ronald McDonald House Charities of South Florida, a not-for-profit foundation dedicated to helping local children live happier, healthier and more productive lives by supporting health care and medical research programs, education and the arts, and civic and social programs.

The Ronald McDonald House of Miami is a "home-away-from-home" for families of seriously ill children receiving treatment at any pediatric medical facility. Since opening its doors in 1982, the 28-bedroom House has provided shelter and solace for more than 18000 families from all over the world. Twenty-four hours a day, 365 days a year, the House offers parents and family members of ill children a refuge from the hospital.

Who We Are

Established in 1988, the Ronald McDonald House Charities ® (RHMC) of South Florida is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping local children live happier, healthier, and more productive lives.

The Ronald McDonald House is a "home-away from home"® for families who must travel hundreds, sometimes thousands of miles, outside their own community to seek medical treatment for a child. Each house offers families a refuge from the hospital- a special place providing warm, friendly and low cost housing alternatives to parents and siblings of seriously ill children.

There are two Ronald McDonald Houses presently in South Florida: Our Miami house, located on the grounds of the Jackson Memorial Medical Center, and our newest addition which opened its doors in 2004, in Fort Lauderdale at Broward General Medical Center. Houses are designated to encourage interaction among their guests to help them cope during an extremely difficult time.

"We have an obligation to give something back to the communities

Admission Information

Our houses are opened to any family referred to us by an authorized hospital staff. Rooms are assigned on a first come, first serve basis, and we request a minimal contribution of $15.00 per night from each of our families, though no family is turned away because of their inability to pay.

★ Children receiving treatment at the hospital must be under the age of 21, and a patient at any Miami-Dade or Broward County pediatric hospital. These include Holtz Children's Hospital, Miami Children's Hospital, Chris Evert Children's Hospital, Joe DiMaggio Children's Hospital, Plantation General Hospital, and Holy Cross Hospital.

The maximum length of stay is 30-60 days (depending on house location), after which each family is required to check out, and again be referred by a hospital staff member to be placed on a waiting list for re-admittance.

that gives us so much."

-McDonald's Corporation Founder Ray Kroc

How It Began

The first Ronald McDonald House opened in Philadelphia in 1974, responding to a family's struggle to cope with their daughter's leukemia treatment. Today, more than 254 houses are in operation around the world; each providing a comfortable and supportive living environment for over 6,000 people every night. Each house is independently operated by a local board of directors, and is responsible for their own fundraising.
