The “2017 National Traffic Incident Extrication Challenge” held in Clearwater, Florida, included up to fifteen rescue teams from all over North America, South America, and Canada who participated in a team based scenario training exercise designed to promote good team dynamics, improve communications and increase rescue scene proficiency. Each team consisted of six members, the team leader, a medic, two technical rescue personnel and one person responsible for both medical and technical operations support.

All teams competed in two scenarios and additional training evolutions. This challenge is a World Rescue Organization sanctioned event and participation qualifies teams for further national and international Rescue Challenges.
